Some 1986 model Toyota vehicles have theft prevention labels on certain body parts throughout the vehicle. The purpose of these labels is to reduce the incidence of vehicle theft by facilitating the tracing and recovery of parts from stolen vehicles. The following precautions concerning the labels should be observed during pre-delivery service, body repairs, or other repair operations.

- Do not attempt to remove the theft prevention labels as it may violate certain state or federal regulations.
- When repainting the originally equipped parts, the label should be masked so that it is not painted over.
- The label affixed to the Toyota replacement body parts is covered with masking tape and it should be peeled off if the label is not visible after painting.
- Body parts should NOT be interchanged between existing vehicles with theft prevention labels.
